Project Description

Our project will be creating a website where users can create and view blog posts. This site will have the option of creating an account to create posts but will not require an account to view other peoples posts. We hope that our site will be similar to that of blogger but with a better user interface. We have prepared a preliminary requirements list that contains the features we wish to implement on our site. This list will be subject to change as the project progresses as we may add or subtract features to help with user experience.
